Executive Proclamation

Office of the Governor

Whereas, Infection Prevention Professionals are devoted to patient and healthcare worker safety and are committed to reducing the risk and occurrence of healthcare-associated infections; and,

Whereas, The financial burden attributed to healthcare-associated infections is staggering and represents an estimated $28 billion to $33 billion in excess healthcare cost each year worldwide and $6.5 billion in the United States; and,

Whereas, The World Health Organization estimates that at any given time over 1.4 million people worldwide suffer from infectious complications acquired in hospitals; and,

Whereas, There is a need for ongoing education efforts to make the public aware of the importance of preventing healthcare-associated infections, thereby reducing the burden of human suffering and disease; and,

Whereas, The Department of Health's Healthcare-Associated Infections Program is working in concert with the private healthcare sector to reduce healthcare-associated infections in South Dakota; and,

Whereas, The Association for Professionals in Infection Control and Epidemiology, representing more than 14,000 Infection Prevention Professionals sponsors International Infection Prevention Week:

Now, Therefore, I, Dennis Daugaard, Governor of the state of South Dakota, do hereby proclaim October 14-20, 2012, as

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the state of South Dakota, in Pierre, the Capital City, this Twenty-fifth Day of September in the Year of Our Lord, Two Thousand and Twelve.

Dennis Daugaard
